A Catwalk of Couture for a Cure

SHELLEY DALY, KIM COFFMAN

Honoree David Solomon, Finola Hughes
Melissa Amschwand-Bellinger

Catwalk for a Cure's second annual luncheon was a moving afternoon with a medical mission (raising funds for Houston-based Amschwand Sarcoma Cancer Foundation). Overseen by the terrific chair trio of Anne Carl, Alica Smith, and Kim Moody, the sell-out event (topping 500, nearly double the inaugural year's attendees) signaled its arrival as an important fixture of fall's social season. There were no dry eyes when honoree and sarcoma survivor David Solomon addressed the crowd. We were seated with the woman whose vision guides the foundation, Melissa Amschwand-Bellinger; Her first husband, Tom, succumbed to the disease, so she serves as executive director to raise funds for research and facilities for families impacted by this often-fatal form of cancer. Saks Fifth Avenue provided the runway razzle-dazzle, and Emmy-garnering Finola Hughes of the Style Network did a PA, flying from L.A. at the 11th hour, after Lauren Hutton was unable to attend.
